HENRY FORD CLAIMS TWO RACES, REFUSES TO COMPETE FURTHER

Crew of Fishing Schooner Loads Boat with Ballast for Work.

Gloucester, Mass., Oct. 24.—(By the Associated Press.)—The Gloucester schooner Henry Ford today withdrew from the racing for the international fishing schooner championship of the North Atlantic. Captain Clayton Morrissey, asserting that his boat and his men had already won the two races from the Canadian champion Bluenose, for the possession of the trophy, put iron ballast aboard preparatory to going fishing.

The first race last Saturday was declared void because of disregard of postponement signals. The Ford won again yesterday, with a make-shift crew recruited with the aid of Secretary of the Navy Denby.

The decision to withdraw the Ford today followed a dinner to the race committee last night at which a letter was read from President Harding, saying the races were a fine contribution to the international good will between our people and our Canadian neighbors.

Secretary Denby joined in the President's appreciation of the international good done by these contests and made several observations gained from his two days on the slippery decks of the Henry Ford.

"Should there be any feeling regarding any decision by any committee in these races, let us forget it," he added. "Let us not abandon these competitions between working ships and working men. Don't let one little fiasco, one little accident, if it shall prove there was an accident, interfere with such contests, productive of fine good will."

By his act in putting ballast aboard Captain Morrissey, under the conditions of the deed of gift of the trophy and prize offered in the annual competition, automatically eliminated his vessel from the series.

The deed of gift provisions reads: "No ballast shall be taken on, or put off the competing vessels during the series."

Captain Morrissey, in this act of withdrawal, relinquished claim not only to the cup, but to at least $2,000 and possibly $3,000 of prize money, these sums, respectively, were the loser's and winner's shares.

"It has cost me and my men enough already, so that the matter of a few thousand dollars does not count against the principle involved," Captain Morrissey said.

"Old Man" Stagg Proves He's Fox

By Associated Press Leased Wire Chicago, Oct. 24.—Director A. A. Stagg, has been turning out football teams at the University of Chicago for thirty-one years and the "old man," as he is affectionately termed, is regarded as a very grave and serious mentor. How he hoodwinked an innocent photographer was revealed today.

The camera man, who said he represented a New York newspaper, asked permission to snap the Chicago team. Stagg granted the request, but guarding against the possibility that the pictures might fall into Princeton hands and in view of the Princeton game here Saturday, he put a 200 pound substitute at quarter, a 150 pound freshman at full back and otherwise mixed up the team although the photographer never knew it.

American Oil Cos. to Be Protected

By Associated Press Leased Wire London.—Arrangements for American Oil interests to be represented jointly with Franco-British companies in Mesopotamia are being completed, according to authoritative information received here today. The exact extent of that proposition has not been determined.

ADVERTISERS—

The tremendous amount of advertising, which has been swamping The Telegraph's mechanical capacity every Friday, and the tardiness of local merchants in getting their advertising copy for Friday's issues into this office in time for it to be handled properly, have made it absolutely necessary that The Telegraph promulgate the following rule which will be strictly adhered to henceforth:

All copy for display advertisements in Friday issues of the Telegraph MUST be in this office before 6 p. m. of the Thursday preceding the day of publication otherwise it will not be handled for Friday's paper.

SENSATIONS IN ROCK ISLAND TO FOLLOW PROBE?

Asst. Atty. General on Ground to Begin Inquest.

Rock Island, Oct. 24.—(By the Associated Press.)—A United States marshal is in Rock Island today awaiting the return to the city of John Looney to serve on him a warrant for his arrest on a charge of stealing an automobile and transporting it in violation of a national motor law, for which offense Looney has been indicted by the federal grand jury at Peoria. Looney has been missing from the city for three days. While there are rumors he has fled to Mexico, where he has a ranch, to escape involvement in the grand jury vice and crime investigation, his associates here declare that he is merely out of the city on a business mission and will return in due time.

To Evade Billburg Gang?

It is also said that Looney got out of town to evade the Billburg crowd, whose members have been released on bonds on a charge of killing Looney's son in an underworld-gun battle October 6 in the heart of the city. Looney himself has been barricaded since the killing of his son in his home surrounded by an armed guard of several paid henchmen.

The investigation by Attorney General Brundage and a corps of assistants of vice and crime conditions in the city was gotten under way today. Thomas Marshall, assistant Attorney General, will be assigned to direct the probe before the grand jury. Sensational disclosures involving prominent persons are expected.

Chinese Girl Bobs Hair, is Spanked Commits Suicide

Manila, Oct. 24.—(By the Associated Press.)—Wing Ty, a Chinese girl 17 years old, committed suicide by drowning today, according to the police, when her mother spanked her for bobbing her hair and cutting her skirts to the height in vogue among the flappers of America.

The sight of her daughter, minus her long, black braid and ankle length skirts, so enraged the mother that she administered a severe whipping with a razor strap. Wing Ty took her punishment and then jumped into the Pasig river.

New Investment Co. Opens Office Here

The Tri-County Investment Company with offices at 105 Galena avenue, opened this morning a new business enterprise in this city. H. S. Steele, who has made Dixon his headquarters for some time, is in charge of the offices, which will represent S. W. Strauss & Company of Chicago, dealing in high grade investment securities. G. E. Morgan, who during the past summer has served the Dixon and Rock River Country clubs as pro, is associated with Mr. Steele in the offices.

NINE TRAGEDIES IN NEWS OF DAY STAND OUT IN PROMINENCE

Six Sensational Murder Cases; Five Defendants Are Women.

By Associated Press Leased Wire Chicago, Oct. 24.—Nine tragedies stand out as dramatic spectacles in the news of America today, and all of them present women in the leading roles. They have their settings in six sections of the country.

Six sensational murder cases, five with women as defendants, are in various stages of trial. Another woman, "Peggy" Beal, won her freedom from a jury in Kansas City last night and a seventh, Madeline Obenchain awaits her third trial in Los Angeles. Most of the cases present the "eternal triangle" with variations. Briefly the nine sensational cases appear as follows:

KANSAS CITY.—Marie F. "Peggy" Beal stepped out to freedom acquitted last night after a short trial on charge of murdering her lover, Frank Warren Anderson.

LOS ANGELES.—Arthur Burch of Evanston, Ill., faces his third trial on a charge of killing J. Belton Kennedy. Eight women and four men constitute the jury, with two women as alternate jurors. Madeline Obenchain waits her third trial on the same charge.

LOS ANGELES.—The jury to try Mrs. Clara Phillips accused of beating Mrs. Albert Meadows to death with a hammer, was tentatively completed. Mrs. Meadows was the alleged rival for the love of Mrs. Phillips' husband.

PRESNO, Calif.—George T. Harlow, acquitted by a coroner's jury after he clubbed his wife to death, will be tried for manslaughter, according to District Attorney Dailey. H. C. Blasehard, 19, who Harlow found in his home with Mrs. Harlow, was sentenced to ninety days in jail for disorderly conduct.

PHILADELPHIA.—Mrs. Catherine Rosier, accused of killing her husband, Oscar Rosier, and his stenographer, Mildred Geraldine Reckitt, faced trial for the murder of Miss Reckitt.

HACKENSACK, N. J.—George Cline, motion picture director, Alice Thornton and Charles Scullion, brother-in-law of Cline, were on joint trial for the murder of John Bergen, motion picture actor. The defense began its testimony today.

CLEVELAND, O.—The trial of Mrs. Mabel Champlin, 22, alleged slayer of Thomas O'Connell, carnival promoter, was postponed until next Monday. Four jurors, three of whom are women, had been selected when the postponement was made.

WHITE CLOUD, Mich.—Mrs. Media Hodel, on trial for killing her father-in-law, David Hodel, with poison, repudiated her previous confession to police, declaring the confession was obtained by threats of being hanged by the spirits of her father-in-law, and her husband, Romie Hodel.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J.—State officials took over the task of attempting to solve the murder of the Rev. Edward W. Hall and his choir leader, Mrs. Eleanor Mills.

Several Bus Lines Are Given Permits

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 24.—The Illinois Commerce Commission today granted authority for the operation of the following motor bus lines: J. P. Thompson and S. A. Mawhinney, the Blue Bus Line and the Borden Bus Line, Decatur; the Jacksonville Bus Line between Jacksonville and Springfield; the Staunton-St. Louis Motor Express Company to operate passenger and express cars between Staunton and St. Louis; the White Transportation Line between Herrin, Johnson City, Jeffrey, Colp, Clifford, Carterville, Hurst and Bush; the Joliet & Chicago Cartage Company between Joliet and Chicago.

Kitten's Mewing Foils Jail Break

By Associated Press Leased Wire Hutchinson, Kansas, Oct. 24.—The mewing of a kitten probably prevented the escape of the prisoners held in the Reno county jail here today. Reassured after a summary inspection, Jailer Bennett had bused himself in the boiler room when he was attracted by the cries of the kitten in a corner. Going to rescue it, he heard tapping above him which directed his attention to a large hole which prisoners were making in the wall.

First Meeting of Half-Brothers in 40 Years—in Cell

By Associated Press Leased Wire Little Rock, Ark., Oct. 24.—John Spencer of Pope county and Harry Spencer of Conway county, Arkansas, half brothers, met for the first time in 40 years, when they were both placed in the same cell in the county jail here. Both were under arrest on liquor charges.

The father of the two men married twice. John, the elder, was living with other relatives at the time his father was killed 40 years ago. His step mother and her child Harry, left the community within a few weeks, and the boys lost all trace of each other.

Big Warehouse in Chicago is Burned

By Associated Press Leased Wire Chicago, Oct. 24.—Fire of unknown origin was raging early today in the Anglo-American Provision Company's warehouse "C" in the stock yards district. The warehouse was used by Armour & Company as a store house for food stuffs.

Because of the location of the big building, with railroad tracks on two sides and Hubby creek on another, fire companies had difficulty in getting their hose to the blaze. Thirty engineers were called out.

Although they had great difficulty in fighting the blaze in the warehouse, firemen apparently had the fire confined to the one building and said they could keep it from spreading to the Municipal garbage plant nearby.

Circulation Men Meeting in Chicago

By Associated Press Leased Wire Chicago, Oct. 24.—"Deliver the paper on the date of publication, and before the storm is over, for the weather is important to the farmer," B. W. Reasoner, of the Terre Haute, Indiana, Star, offered as a mandate to Newspaper Circulation Managers at the meeting of the Central States Circulation Managers' Association here today. He favored direct soliciting as opposed to "bargain offers" in obtaining subscriptions.

Charles D. Chaffee of the Aurora, Illinois, Beacon News, is president of the association.

Child Crushed to Death Under Hoofs of Father's Horses

Robert Henry Haak, two and one-half year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Haak who reside north of Sterling, was crushed to death beneath the hoofs of a team of horses which his father was driving yesterday. The animals became frightened and ran over the child.

FOOT BALL INDUSTRY PROBLEM OF COLLEGE COACHES THIS SEASON

Find It Impossible to Handle Crowd Which Attend Battles.

Chicago, Oct. 24.—(By the Associated Press.)—Football in the mid-west is rapidly assuming the proportions of an industry—a very successful industry, at that—and causing officials of the Western Conference to scratch their heads in perplexity over the problem of seating between 2,000,000 and 3,000,000 people this season in bleachers designed in the days when football was "just another piece of college foolishness."

Between 1,500,000 and 2,000,000 spectators will get the thrill of "Big Ten" games this season, and judging from experiences in former years, conference officials believe that from one-third to one-half that many will be turned away because of lack of accommodations.

Receipts Over $1,500,000.

Receipts from games in the conference this season will total, in all probability, more than $1,500,000, officials said today. That much more will be expended in building more seats to increase the attendance.

At Ohio State University, where a new $1,400,000 stadium, seating 63,000 persons, was dedicated last Saturday, 72,000 persons jammed their way into the enclosure and thousands were turned away. The demand for tickets to the big inter-sectional clash between Chicago and Princeton here next Saturday was so brisk that all of the seats were sold nearly three weeks before the game, and thousands of applications were returned to the unlucky Stagg Field has a seating capacity of only 31,000, even with the erection of temporary bleachers, but more than 100,000 applications, each calling for two or more seats, were received.

Big Crowds Regular.

Extraordinary crowds have turned out at all the conference games thus far this season. The Iowa-Illinois game at Urbana last Saturday drew capacity—23,000—while the Wisconsin-Indiana game at Madison drew another capacity crowd—26,000.

George Huff, director of athletics at the University of Illinois, who built Illinois' first bleachers seating 300, almost 20 years ago, turned the first spadeful of earth for a new stadium seating 65,000 at Urbana last month. Architects have already completed plans which will increase the capacity to 80,000, if necessary. Last summer Iowa built her field into a stadium of steel, but even with this added capacity, Hawkeye officials expect difficulty in satisfying the demand for tickets.

This demand has entailed such a tremendous amount of clerical work at some universities that these institutions are actually advertising to keep people away from games.

DO YOU KNOW?

(By Dixon Chamber of Commerce.)

That the condensed milk industry is of comparative recent origin? In 1857 Gail Borden after a series of experiments produced the first satisfactory condensed milk. This business has grown to a production of 39,000,000 cases per year. Much of which is exported to all countries on the face of the globe.

The Dixon plant of the Borden Company received its first milk on July 1, 1888, and have received milk continuously daily including Sundays and holidays since that time, with the exception of two days. At the present time it is handling the milk from 561 dairies, this milk being the product of 8,148 cows.

It employs an average of 250 employees, approximately divided equally between men and girls.

In addition to the condensed milk production, the Dixon plant has one of the largest tin shops in the west, manufacturing nearly 100,000 cans of California, Utah, Illinois, Kansas and Wisconsin plants. The company also has two malted milk plants, two powdered milk plants and two confectionery plants, in addition to having extensive bottled milk business.

The Dixon plant is one of the forty-five manufacturing plants operated by the Borden Company, and also manufactures part of the confectionery line. It will be very surprising to many to know that at the present time the output of confectionery in the Dixon plant is from fourteen to fifteen tons daily, 23,000 to 30,000 lbs. and that this candy is shipped not only to all points in the United States, but also that considerable of it is exported.

The last three years have proven without doubt that the sections of the country in which dairying was prominent have suffered less from industrial depression than other sections, and the increase in the value of farm lands and prosperity in this section can be attributed greatly to the presence of the condensing plant. This can be readily appreciated when it is understood that the Borden Company distributes to dairies supplying the Dixon plant $40,000.00 to $50,000.00 per month or an annual distribution of between $500,000.00 and $600,000.00.

The plant is nicely located on the Lincoln Highway, has 55 acres, much of which is wooded, forming a beautiful park as a background. One section of the property has been platted into building lots known as Eagle Grove subdivision, intersected by a street known as Borden Place. Practically all of these lots have been sold to employees, two houses are practically completed, five in immediate prospect and within a year it is expected that fifteen new homes will be located on this property.

Dixon has every reason to be proud of this institution as it has proven to be one of the most stable institutions in this part of the state.

some universities that these institutions are actually advertising to keep people away from games.

"PEGGY" BEAL ACQUITTED ON MURDER CHARGE

Jury Out But Short Time in Deciding Girl's Fate.

By Associated Press Leased Wire Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 24.—Marie L. "Peggy" Beal faced life with renewed determination today. She walked from the criminal court here last night, following her acquittal on the charge of the murder of her lover Frank Warren Anderson.

Leaping to her feet as the verdict was read, Mrs. Beal thanked the jury and asserted:

"Now I am going to stay right here and make good. I'm going to send for my little boys in Terre Haute and make a good home for them."

The ordeal was comparatively brief in court. There were few witnesses and the testimony was speedily adduced. The story of the shooting was told by her as she wept. She recounted the episode which terminated in her fatally wounding Anderson in a room which they occupied together in a hotel on June 3. He had lured her there, she asserted, with a promise of marriage.

She had been reading a passage in a romantic novel in which a woman killed her lover. She shot Anderson as he lay on the bed and turned the revolver on herself, sending a bullet into her breast. She said that she could not recall shooting him, but remembered shooting herself in the breast.

Indian Girls Guard Grave of Ancestors

By Associated Press Leased Wire Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 24.—Guarding what they claim is the honored dust of their ancestors, three Indian sisters, Helena, Lydia and Ida Conley, have taken up vigil with shotguns in the cemetery here. The sisters resent an alleged attempt to bury the body of a man, whose parents are said to lie near the graves over which the girls keep watch.

The grave diggers cemetery keeper declares, under threat of arrest, that permission had been granted by H. B. Pears, head of Haskell Institute to a sister of the man whose body awaits burial.

The Indian girls have divided the night vigil, and bring blankets with them, sleeping on the cemetery sod.

In 1917 the sisters sustained a siege of a week in a temporary fort in the same cemetery who were sent to protect laborers cutting weeds.

Release Suspect in Indiana Wreck Plot

By Associated Press Leased Wire Williamsport, Ind., Oct. 24.—Charles D. Deane, held as a suspect in connection with the wreck on the Wabash railway near here last Thursday night, in which three persons were killed, several injured and seven coaches were burned, was released today for lack of evidence by the sheriff.

An I. W. W. membership card was taken from him by the sheriff.

Federal agents, state authorities and railroad detectives are continuing their investigation of the wreck, believed to have been caused by someone tampering with the rails. The coroner's jury was still in session today.

Football Referee Reverses Decision

By Associated Press Leased Wire Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 24.—William N. Morice, referee of the Columbia-New York University football contest in New York last Saturday, today announced that he had changed his ruling on a play which gave the game to New York University by a score of 7-6, and that the score should be 6 to 2 in favor of Columbia.

Big Increase in Capital Stock is Sought By Company

By Associated Press Leased Wire Springfield, Ill., Oct. 24.—The Commonwealth Edison Company of Chicago today filed a petition with the Illinois Commerce Commission asking authority to issue $12,000,000 additional capital stock and $180,000 first mortgage bonds.

HIS ATTORNEYS INDICATE SO IN INTERROGATION

State's Attorney Hints at Death Penalty in Examination.

That self defense will be the plea of the attorneys for Leonard Woodyatt, on trial this week before Judge Harry Edwards in the Lee county Circuit court, for the alleged murder of Herbert Long of Harmon at the carnival grounds on the night of Saturday, July 24, was indicated by questions asked by Attorney H. A. Brooks, chief of counsel for the defense, of prospective jurorsmen today. Mr. Brooks repeatedly asked veniremen if they believed in self-defense, the right of a man to protect himself if he believed himself to be in danger of death or great bodily injury.

Equally insistent was State's Attorney Keller's inquiries of talesmen if they had any compunctions against the infliction of the death penalty, under the law and the evidence.

Four Jurors Accepted.

Charles McMillan, Paw Paw. Clara Johnson, Compton. J. H. LaPorte, Paw Paw. Henry Stein, Compton.

Sixteen men were excused during the morning session of the court as follows:

Paul Kries, Ashton; excused for cause.

Oliver Eisenberg, Bradford; challenged by defense.

Carl Garrett, Amboy; challenged by defense.

George Shawbecker, Ashton; excused for cause.

George McKern, Compton; excused by defense.

Bert Vogel, Ashton; excused by state.

Ralph Landis, Palmyra; excused by state.

John W. Weishaar, Ashton; excused for cause.

R. W. Smith, China; excused for cause.

M. W. Walters; excused for cause.

David A. Howard, South Dixon; excused for cause.

Tom Drew, Nelson; challenged by defense.

Clarence Jacobson, Lee; excused for cause.

Ed. Cojfeld, Lee; excused for cause.

Chas. Ramsdell, China; excused for cause.

Miles Johnson, Nachusa; excused for cause.

Many Had Opinions.

Opposition to the infliction of the death penalty in proper cases and opinions which would require evidence to remove, were the principal stumbling blocks encountered yesterday afternoon in the selection of a jury. With but twenty-four talesmen to draw from after many, who were farmers had been excused by Judge Edwards for just cause, the panel was exhausted before 3 o'clock and not a single man had been selected for service.

Those who remained in the juror's box who had not been questioned by attorneys for the prosecution or defense and some who had not been challenged were ordered under guard of the sheriff and taken from the court room. Judge Edwards then called counsel into consultation and shortly after summoned Sheriff Frank Schoenholz and instructed him to have a panel of seventy-five talesmen present in the court room at 10 o'clock this morning. Counsel were notified by the court at the outset of the afternoon, that a panel of fifty additional men would have been called had either side requested.

Crowd Admonished.

When court was adjourned at 3 o'clock, there were ten prospective jurors in the box. The state had accepted the first four after challenging for cause and excusing seven men. Of the four, Attorney H. A. Brooks for the defense challenged three for cause at once in his examination. At the adjournment of court Judge Edwards admonished the crowd which almost filled the court room to pass out quietly, creating no disturbance and calling counsel before him, announced that court was adjourned until 10 o'clock and that no delay would be permitted. Sheriff Schoenholz instructed Deputy Liehliter and Risley to return Woodyatt to the county jail. The

DIXON WOMAN'S RELIEF CORPS MEETING—
The regular meeting of the Dixon Woman's Relief Corps No. 218, Auxiliary to the G. A. R., was held on Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, in G. A. R. hall. The meeting was exceptionally well attended, and, in addition, there was a splendid delegation of about 47 ladies from the Walnut Corps who with their escorts found their way to Dixon through muddy, slippery roads. Their arrival and good spirits were heralded at the start by blasts from the numerous discordant horns in their possession.

The meeting was preceded by a scramble dinner at noon at which there was about a 100 in attendance, including comrades of the Post and the visitors from Walnut.

At the meeting which followed, two important dates were set. The one on Monday evening, Nov. 6th, at which time a special meeting will be called for inspection. Department Inspector Dora L. North will at this time be called and inspect the ritualistic work of the Corps.

At the regular meeting to be held on Monday evening, Nov. 13th, an exceptionally interesting Armistice Day program has been arranged at which time Rev. Aubrey S. Moore will be the speaker.

The Corps voted to provide yarn to be knitted into sleeping caps for the tubercular boys of the World War who are now convalescent at the Fitzsimons Hospital in Denver, Colo., and who are sleeping out of doors these wintry nights. As the weather becomes more severe the need is greater and Dixon Corps is anxious to do her share. If those who knit will call the president, Mrs. Decker, she will be glad to provide them with yarn.

Any of the members intending to go to the District Convention to be held at Oregon Thursday, Nov. 2nd, will please notify the President not later than Thursday of this week in order that the Oregon Corps may know just how many dinners to provide.

The feeling of friendship and good will existing between Walnut and Dixon Corps and remarks of a lighter nature were all touched upon by the President of Walnut Corps, Mrs. Keithahn, and the members as they were in turn called upon, and brought the meeting to a very pleasant close.

CELEBRATED 25TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY—
The home of Mr. and Mrs. Randall Green on the Chicago Road was the scene of a joyous gathering of about fifty relatives and friends Sunday, Oct. 22nd, the occasion being Mr. and Mrs. Green's 25th wedding anniversary.

A bounteous dinner was served at noon by their daughter, Miss Mandana Green, Miss Pearl Disting of Amboy and Mrs. Sarah Buckingham of Dixon.

Mr. and Mrs. Green received many gifts of silverware, china and cut flowers as tokens of the friendship and esteem of their relatives and friends.

The guests spent an enjoyable day with Mr. and Mrs. Green and departed, wishing them hearty congratulations and all hoping they could help them celebrate their golden anniversary also.

Most of the guests present were also guests at their wedding in East Grove township twenty-five years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Green went to house-

Decatur Baseball Club Has Election

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Decatur, Ill., Oct. 24.—At a meeting of the board of directors of the Decatur Fans Association Monday night, which organization operated the local club of the Three Eye League, the following officers were named for the ensuing year:
L. J. Wy'le, president; W. S. Turpin, vice president; R. W. Heady, secretary; and W. A. Hammer, treasurer.

Mr. Wy'le succeeds Postmaster J. H. Hill, who would not be a candidate for re-election although league baseball was put on a high plane under his direction the past season.

Wants to Increase Sergeants in Army

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, Oct. 24.—Amendment of the national defense act to increase the number of sergeants in the army has been asked by Secretary Weeks, it was announced today, in order that about 1600 non-commissioned officers, assigned at instructors to the national guard, organized reserves and training corps units will not have to be cut in rank and pay due to progressive reductions in the army.

Allies Refuse to Allow Turk Troops in Constantinople

Constantinople, Oct. 24.—(By the Associated Press)—The allied generals and the Turkish nationalists are still at loggerheads over the route to be taken by the Turkish gendarmes in their occupation of Eastern Thrace. Rafeel Pasha, the new military governor of Thrace, at a long conference with the allied chiefs yesterday, urged that the gendarmes be permitted to go through Constantinople, but was told that the bulk of these forces must enter Thrace by way of Rodosto. None of the conferees seemed in a friendly mood.

RAIL OFFICIAL RESIGNS
Aurora, Ill., Oct. 23.—F. A. Torrey, general superintendent of motive power for the Burlington Railroad, has resigned, it was learned today, the resignation taking effect November 1.

Mr. Torrey, whose home is in LaGrange, has been with the Burlington forty-eight years.

Child Chess Wizard Arraigned in Court

New York, Oct. 23.—Samuel Rzeschewski, ten-year-old chess wizard, was to be arraigned in the Children's Court in the Bronx today on a charge of improper guardianship, as a result of his detention last night at Hunt's Point Palace where he appeared as an entertainer at a benefit for the National Hebrew Orphanage.

According to Supt. Hyman of the Bronx children's society, the boy appeared on the program after his manager, M. Knopoff had been denied a permit. He sat on the stage from 8:30 to 11:15 p. m., when he sang three songs. At 11:30 p. m., he started playing five chess games simultaneously and Mr. Hyman stepped on the stage and took him into custody.

MEAT

Man couldn't get along without domesticated animals. The world now has one sheep and one head of cattle for each five persons and one head of swine for each 12 people.

America, with only a sixteenth of the world's population, has a sixth of the world's cattle, a tenth of the sheep and three-sevenths of the swine.

We are the greatest meat-eaters on earth. Yet we are the most peaceful people. Militant Japan's diet is based on rice. It is an uncomfortable contrast for the theorists who preach that meat-eaters makes people ferocious or savagely emotional.

SHORTAGE

Sheep in America decreased from 52,500,000 head in 1910 to 35,000,000 head in 1920. The Senate hears this, through its tariff committee, from the National Sheep and Wool Bureau of America.

Decrease in sheep raising has been largely due to falling off in consumption of virgin wool. Wool, chewed up and used over and over on clothing, will be a boomerang on clothing manufacturers later, in the form of a shortage of virgin wool.

SEALSKIN

The great herd of 2,500,000 seals in the northern Pacific was reduced to less than 125,000 by indiscriminate slaughter. Result: Women probably are paying as much for Hudson seal-dyed muskrat—as they would be paying for genuine sealskin if the seal herds had been protected.

Fortunately government protection of seals now is rigid, and the herd has increased to 600,000.

Man is reckless of anything he finds in great quantities. Few of us look into the future, guarding against shortage.

MONEY

Postal savings banks now have deposits of about $150,000,000. Other banks have deposits 85 times as big.

Many bankers opposed postal savings banks when they were started. Time has proved that the postal banks' champions were right in their contention that postal banks would attract chiefly money otherwise hidden behind the clock, instead of cutting into deposits in privately-run banks.

NO. 17465

Forty six years ago Alexander Graham Bell had had his telephone patent, No. 174,605, only two months and was talking himself blue in the face, trying to interest capital in his "toy."

Today youngsters no taller than a yardstick are successfully making "wireless" telephone outfits.

This rapid advance has come in 46 years. We advance with lightning speed in our time. Hero, of Alexandria, ancient mathematician, invented his aeolipile or first steam engine about the year 100. Yet it was not until 1774 that Watt succeeded in perfecting Hero's discovery to the useful stage.

DIAMONDS

Diamonds are being imported at the rate of only $32,000,000 a month. Two years ago, the figure was three times as big.

How many diamonds there are in the world is beyond even a rough guess. South Africa has produced about $500,000,000 worth since the two children of a Dutch farmer playing in the gravel of a river, found the first Kimberley diamond in 1867.

Our country has corralled half of the world's diamonds, which reveals something about our national prosperity compared with that of other countries.

RUINED

Nelson, chief biologist for Uncle Sam, will cross the Alaskan caribou with the reindeer. The idea is to breed a larger animal, now that caribou and reindeer are looming as future meat supply. Better leave them alone.

A precedent exists in some of the "scientific" tinkering with certain fruits and vegetables, practically ruined as tasty food by "improvements." They look better to the eye, but taste like wood, compared with the original natural state.

WOMEN

About 12,000,000 women are on pay rolls in United States, says a government report. That means, one out of four workers are women and girls.

Woman is becoming financially independent but the home is not in any great danger. Dan Cupid attends to that. Typewriters, bookkeeping, cash registers and factory benches lose their lure when nature calls for more babies.

DEATH

Sydney, Australia, claims it is the healthiest city in the world. Last year its death rate was only 19 out of each 2000 inhabitants.

However, there is no occasion to rush across the Pacific. Only 26 out of each 2000 Americans die yearly. That is but seven above the world's healthiest city. And our death rate is being cut steadily.

DR. HEINIE

Marks have become so worthless in Germany that dealers at the Leipzig Fair refuse to accept them in payment for goods to be exported. They demand foreign money.

* Samuel Montagu & Co., London foreign exchange house, says this is typical of the approaching situation all through Germany. The day inevitably is not far off when the foreign holder of German currency will be unable to spend his marks even across the Rhine.

PERSONALITY

Ohio produces 48 per cent of the nation's entire output of rubber goods says Department of Commerce. There is no logical reason why Ohio should lead in this line, except that Ohio men decided to create the opportunity. Personality is the greatest force in business. And opportunity is where we make it, not far off over the hills.

TURKISH

A famous and powerful woman rises in the orient. She is Halide Edib Hanoum, the "Turkish Joan of Arc."

Halide is highly educated, magnetic with a romantic career that includes exile, triumphant escape and a return to the leadership of her armies.

This woman probably soon will figure in newspaper headlines. Most interesting thing about her is that a beautiful Turkish woman now can have a "career," instead of being enslaved in the harem. Emancipation of women is reaching into the most remote places of the earth.

LOVERS

A Pennsylvania lover, arrested by State Trooper Larsen, is fined $50 for the feat of driving his auto 50 miles an hour and kissing his girl every time a telephone pole flashed past.

Old-timers who recall moonlight buggy-rides, slow rides and slow kisses, thus see another evidence of changing times—the introduction of "efficiency" in "parking."

EINSTEIN

Einstein's brain gets into deeper water. He turns from his relativity theory and begins studying electrons and the quanta theory. This theory is that radiations such as light are streams of flying particles of matter instead of waves or vibrations in the ether.

Such probably is the case with radium.

At the far end of the road is the theory that force is a form of matter.

CHINESE

You could talk Chinese in six months, says Franklin C. H. Lee, linguist. White children born in China "pick up" Chinese words more easily than English words.

The old Chinese language, with no alphabet, has 40,000 characters. This has been simplified into an alphabet of 39 letters. With our foreign trade future swinging from Europe to the Orient, the day may be ahead when as many Americans will study Chinese as now study French and German. Education follows trade more than trade follows the f

JACK DAW'S ADVENTURES

(No. 86)

BY ELTON

After his two captors had shown him the huge tower, Jack was dragged inside. "Notice the strong doors this place has," said one of the men. "It is practically impossible for a person to escape from a place like this."

Then Jack was led to the multimillionaire's room. "It looks like you are in for it," said one of the men to Jack. "Old Man Ogre has no use for people who come snooping around on his property."

At last Jack was ushered in to face the old land owner. Then his captors explained that the boy had been trespassing. "Take him up to the tower and give him nothing but bread and water," shouted Old Man Ogre. Continued.

TYPED

A new typewriter is invented, with 22 more keys than are on machines now used. These keys print such words as "the," "was," "are," "and," etc. The inventor claims that these 22 words, on the average, make up 32 out of each 100 words used in type-written correspondence. Conversation is becoming a lost art. Letter writing already is.

HOORCH

Wets are circulating figures showing that alcoholic deaths are increasing. It is even claimed that, in some communities, liquor is killing more people than before prohibition.

More drunks may be dying abruptly. But fewer are dying slowly by chronic alcoholism. As an instance, the gentleman with hardened arteries or puffs under his eyes is not seen as often as in the old days. The death score remains in favor of prohibition.

GRAIN

In the British grain market, experts estimate that this year's harvest of the six cereal crops of Russia and Ukraine will total about 32,000,000 tons, against 27,000,000 last year and 66,000,000 in 1916. That should be enough to keep Russia alive, on a restricted diet.

But there is no excess for export. Which will please American farmers who know what grain prices, already low, would be if Russia were selling heavily in the international market.

DELUSION

Uncle Sam reports that during August he paid $188,000,000 interest on the public debt.

Liberty bond holder pockets the interest on his bonds. Then the money to pay the interest is taken out of his other pocket, as a taxpayer. Only consolation is that part of it is taken out of pockets of people who do not own bonds. You help pay the interest whether you get it back on bond coupons or not.

SPEED

A German auto racing crew claims the world's non-stop and endurance record. In 300 hours, on the Avus course in Berlin, it covered 3383 miles averaging better than 20 miles to a gallon of gasoline. At this rate, the car would go around the earth in about 900 hours—to be more exact, about 38 days.

The speed, however, averaged only 28 miles an hour. Airplanes soon will be covering similar distances 10 times as fast.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Wait on the Lord; he of good courage, and he shall strengthen thine heart. Wait, I say, on the Lord.—Psalm 27:14.

We never know for what God is preparing us in his school—for what work on earth, for what work in the hereafter. Our business is to do our work well in the present place, whatever that may be.—Lyman Abbott.

LIGHT FINGERS IS FOILED ONCE MORE.

The little car scooted right through.

Nancy and Nick got into pecks of trouble on their way to the Fairy Queen's Palace in the magic automobile but they always got out again.

And when the Sour Old Witch caused a high wall to appear right across the road in front of them Mike Mole and a thousand of his helpers became active at once.

They dug and dug and dug until they had tunnels running criss-cross and cross-criss in every direction right under the wall, and in a jiffy the whole thing tumbled down quite flat, leaving space between the fallen stones for the little car to slide through.

Of course Nancy had to say a charm like this:

"Magic auto, hurry fast, And we'll reach Fairyland at last."

And Nick had to turn the knob on the whirligig between the jigamagab and the thingumabob. But that was all.

The little car began to move, and scooted right through the gap like a shiny red bug scurrying toward its hiding hole.

Light Fingers, the bad little fairy, who had really caused the trouble, was up in a juniper-tree laughing and laughing and laughing—laughing because the wall had stopped the Twins. He was holding his sides and was so busy laughing he never noticed the wall fall down and the magic automobile roll away.

Suddenly he stopped and stared so hard his eyes nearly dropped out of his head.

"Wh-wh-what's happened?" he gasped. He was so astonished he fell plumb out of the tree and landed on his head.

"Oh, oh, oh! I'll never get that old automobile," he howled loudly.

"What's that?" asked a sharp voice. "Who said you wouldn't?"

Light Fingers turned and saw the Sour Old Witch beside him.

HERE HE IS!

By Berton Braley

JIM'S got back! An' who is Jim?
Goodness gracious, ain't you heard of him?
He's the guy with the laughin' mouth,
An' the fund of tales from the north an' south,
An' the stock of stories from the east an' west,
That'll pop the buttons off your fancy vest,
An' he's come home from the rovers' track—
Jim's got back!

JIM'S got back—an' the old men say
"That there Jim's got a tongue that's gay,
An' he sure is one awfully cuss
When he sets around with a bunch like us."
An' the youngsters grin, an' the old maids smile,
An' the matrons fall for his bold-faced guile;
Oh, with women-folks he has got a knack—
Jim's come back!

JIM'S got back! An' who is Jim?
Well, he ain't so much when you study him.
Kind of gypsy an' kind of tramp,
Two-thirds blarney an' four-fifths scam;
Lazy rascal with the travelin' itch,
A maverick that you just can't hitch.
But Lord, who cares? When he lands in town,
With his crooked smile an' his face all brown.

WITH his joyous charm an' his glowin' vim,
Everybody greets him with a "Hi there, Jim!"
An' they lend him money to the care-free sinner,
An' they drag him home to the house for dinner.
For he brings a savor that their calm lives lack—
Jim's got back!

STAGG TO SPEND WEEK PREPARING FOR THE TIGERS

"Old Man" Far from Satisfied with His Maroons.

Chicago, Oct. 23.—A. Alonzo Stagg, veteran master mechanic in the construction of football machines at the University of Chicago, today began an intricate overhauling of his Maroons in preparation for the Princeton game, the country's leading football attraction next Saturday.

Despite Chicago's clean record of three victories, Stagg is not satisfied with the Maroons, who are in for a vigorous going over this week.

Most of the week will probably be devoted to preparation of the attack to be used against the Tigers. The Maroons are looking for some surprises from Princeton, and it is Stagg's idea to make the Tigers do some guessing themselves. The week can be spent to better advantage in perfecting an offense, he believes, than in speculation on the Princeton attack, so the department of the Maroon defense will probably receive only secondary attention from the "Old Man."

Six teams of the Big Ten, two of them leaders in the championship race, will risk their conference standings next Saturday. Bob Zuppke's Illini, who sent the dope bucket spinning last Saturday by holding Iowa to an 8-7 score, meets Michigan, whose victory over Ohio State placed them in the first division. Iowa plays Purdue and the Minnesota Gophers, who barely landed in the first division by getting a 7-7 tie with Northwestern, meet the Buckeyes. These are the only conference games on next Saturday's schedule. Wisconsin and Northwestern are idle and Indiana, tail enders of the second division, meets the Michigan Aggies.

Coroner Calls Fatal Wreck Deliberate

Williamsport, Ind., Oct. 23.—The coroner's jury investigating the wreck on the Wabash Railroad last Thursday night, when three persons were killed, several injured and seven coaches burned, expected to finish its work tonight.

Sheriff Stewart issued a statement today in which he asserted the spikes were pulled from the rails with a spike puller; that nuts were removed from bolts, fish plates taken from the rails and that in some instances nuts were screwed back on the ends of bolts, indicating the work was done by a mechanic, a man who by force of habit screwed the nuts back on the bolts.

Peggy Beal Goes to Trial for Murder of "Perfect Lover"

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 23.—Mary "Peggy" Beal, formerly a nurse of Springfield, Ill., went on trial in circuit court today on a charge of killing F. Warren Anderson, her "perfect lover," in a Kansas City hotel room, June 3.

Impanelment of a jury began immediately on calling of the case by Judge Ralph S. Ratshaw.

Mrs. Beal charges that she was induced to come to Kansas City on Anderson's promise of marriage, and that she killed him only after she found he did not intend to fulfill his promise.

Anderson confessed to her, Mrs. Beal states, that he was married, that he had no intention of obtaining a divorce and that "love to him was but a game of hearts."

After Mrs. Beal shot and killed Anderson, she seriously wounded herself with the same revolver. She is now fully recovered.

None of Anderson's relatives will attend the trial, it was reported today. His widow is said to be ill in Springfield, Ill.

BAN JOHNSON TO BE ASKED TO PUT TY IN 400 CLASS

May Be Asked to Overrule Official Scorer on One Hit.

Chicago, Oct. 23.—One man's judgment on a cold blustery day with rain threatening may cost Ty Cobb, star of the Detroit Tigers, the chance of setting a new major league record this season. One hit separated the Georgia peach from being the first major leaguer to hit in the 400 class for three seasons.

The game in question, was played in New York, May 15, between the Yankees and the Tigers. Recalling it today, the official scorer said Cobb smashed a grounder in the direction of second base. Everett Scott, the Yankee shortstop, went after the ball and reached it, but in the official scorer's judgment, he let the ball slip away when he should have come up clean with it and made an assist. Consequently, Scott was charged with an error, which appears in the official score as sent to President Johnson's office.

According to the unofficial records, Cobb had 211 hits, being credited with two in the May 15 game, which gave him a mark of 400. The official reports, however, credit Cobb with only 210 hits, one less than necessary to bring him into the select circle, for the third time in his baseball career.

President Johnson is out of town, and before the records are closed for the season, it is possible for the league official to overrule the official scorer, in view of the fact that a majority of the base ball writers at the game had credited Cobb with the needed hit.

"Cheer Monday" to Take Place of "Blue"

Chicago, Oct. 23.—A move to make the first working day of the week "cheer Monday" and to abolish the so-called "Blue Monday," has been started by the All-Chicago Council of Kiwanis Clubs. More than 1,000 business men are represented in the council.

"Blue Monday" is a misnomer, according to J. F. Cornelius, originator of the idea, who declares that it's a cheery time for nearly everybody when Chicago tramps back to business.

All Wool Guaranteed Suits

$27

In the ordinary way of buying and selling such suits as these are not available in the regular markets. We have however felt for some months that there is a keen demand for thoroughly dependable, all wool suits selling at less than $30.

We have an inviolate policy in this business to sell only merchandise that will add to the enviable reputation we have established for selling only suits of complete satisfaction and merit. We have never compromised that reputation by offering suits whose only appeal is the mere matter of low price.

Hence the response to an economy-seeking following has led us to exercise special energy and resourcefulness to secure suits within our quality standard requirements that could be sold at this low price.

In order to do this we found it necessary to personally select the fabrics; to go to makers who would, and could, comply with our own, exacting tailoring specifications and operate at the lowest possible margin of profit.

To round out the economy of price with economy in wearing service we, in turn, have marked these suits at a lower profit margin than is possible to concerns of less sales volume.

Truly, you have not met suits of such quality at so low a price since pre-war days. The quantity is plentiful—the variety broad, embracing both young men's and business models — fancy mixtures, neat checks and stripes in soft cassimeres, serges, tweeds and hard-finished worsteds—sizes to fit men of all builds. ## BEGIN HERE TODAY

The savage fight for possession of the priceless flaming jewel had been brought to a halt. EYE STRAYER near death that day and now the gem rested under his pillow in the rough hunting camp in the Adirondacks. The gem was first stolen from the refuge.

JOHNNESS OF ESTHONIA by the great international thief. QUINTANA, and later stolen from Quintana by MIKE CLINCH, who brought the gem to America and hoarded it as the sole means of giving Eve "the education of a lady."

Around Clinch's pump raged a murderous battle between rival factions. Clinch and his men had sworn to wipe out Quintana's gang. Guarding Eve was the man she loved.

STATE TROOPER STORMONT. With Clinch was

JAMES DARRAGH, known as

HAL SMITH, who had sworn to restore the gem to the beguiled countess in a fight. Smith kills Salzar, one of Quintana's gang, and then sets out for Clinch's cabin.

Go on With the Story

CHAPTER II

BEFORE midnight Smith struck the hard forest. Here there was no trail at all, only spreading sateer of rock under dying leaves. Ahead of him, somewhere in darkness—but how far he did not know—Quintana and his people were moving swiftly on Clinch's Dump.

It may have been an hour later—two hours, perhaps—when from far ahead in the forest came a sound—he faint clink of a shoe heel on rock.

Now, Smith unslung his pack, placed it between two rocks where he grew.

Salzar's red bandanna was still wet, but he tied it across his face, leaving his eyes exposed. The dead man's hat fitted him. His own hat and the extra torch he dropped into his basket.

Ready, now, he moved swiftly forward, trailing his rifle. And very soon it became plain to him that the people ahead were moving without much caution, evidently fearing no unfriendly ear or eye in that section of the wilderness.

To keep in touch with them Smith hastened his pace until he drew near enough to hear the low murmur of their voices.

They were traveling in single file; he had a glimpse of them against the ghostly radiance ahead. Indeed, so near had he approached that he could hear the heavy, labored breathing of the last man in the file—some leeward who dragged his feet, plodding on doggedly, panting, muttering. Probably the man was Sord.

Already the forest in front was invaded by the misty radiance from the clearing. Through the trees starlight glimmered on water. The perfume of the open land grew in the night air—the scent of dew-wet grass, the smell of still water and of sedgy shores.

Lying flat behind a rotting log, Smith could see them all now—spectral shapes against the light. There were five of them at the forest's edge.

They seemed to know what was to be done and how to do it. Two went down among the ferns and stunted willows toward the west shore of the pond; two sheered off to the southwest, shoulder deep in blackberry and sumac. The fifth man waited for a while, then ran down across the open pasture.

Scarcely had he started when Smith glided to the wood's edge, crouched, and looked down.

Below stood Clinch's Dump, plain in the starlight, every window dark. To the west the barn loomed, huge with its ramshackle outbuildings straggling toward the lake.

Straight down the slope toward the barn ran the fifth man of Quintana's gang, and disappeared among the outbuildings.

Smith crouched, listened, searched the starlight with intent eyes, and waited.

Until something happened he could not solve the problem before him. He could be of no use to Eve Strayer and to Stormont until he found out what Quintana was going to do.

He could be of little use anyway unless he got into the house, where two rifles might hold out against five.

There was no use in trying to get to Ghost Lake for assistance. He felt that whatever was about to happen would come with a rush. It would be all over before he had gone five minutes. No; the only thing to do was to stay where he was.

As for his pledge to the little Grand Duchess, that was always in his mind. Sooner or later, somehow, he was going to make good his pledge.

He knew that Quintana and his men were here to find the flaming jewel.

Had he not encountered Quintana, his own errand had been the same. For Smith had started for Clinch's prepared to reveal himself to Stormont, and then, masked to the eyes—and to save Eve from a broken heart, and Clinch from States Prison—he had meant to rob the girl at pistol point.

It was the only way to save Clinch; the only way to save the pride of this blindly loyal girl. For the arrest of Clinch meant ruin to both, and Smith realized it thoroughly.

A slight sound from one of the out-houses—a sort of wagon-shed—attracted his attention. Through the frost-blighted rag-weeds he peered intently, listening.

After a few moments a faint glow appeared in the shed. There was a crackling noise. The glow grew pinker.

CHAPTER III

INSIDE Clinch's house Eve awoke with a start. Her ears were filled with a strange, rushing, crackling noise. A rosy glare danced and shook outside her windows.

The girl tore open her bedroom door. "Jack!" she cried in a terrified voice. "The barn's on fire!"

"Good God!" he said, "my horse!"

He had already sprung from his chair outside her door. Now he ran downstairs, and she heard bolt and chain clash at the kitchen door and his spurred boots land on the porch.

"Oh," she whimpered, matching a blanket wrapper from a peg and struggling into it. "Oh, the poor horse! Jack! Jack! I'm coming to help! Don't risk your life! I'm coming—I'm coming!"

BROWN BROTHER PART AND PARCEL OF LIFE OF FORMER DIXON MAN

Claude Backus Writes of
"Benito" and His Fine
Affection.

BY DR. CLAUDE BACKUS

Benito had become part and parcel of my week-end life. I felt sure of him; his ever increasing devotion was one of my most flattering experiences. Had he not, time and again, demonstrated his willingness to sell his soul for me? Would he not, with the most innocent Michael Angelo-like smile lie a stroke a hole to see me winner? Greater love than this hath on Caddie for his Master. It was even so, Amigo.

And had not Benito squirmed in mortal agony on the memorable day when his photograph was snapped and, in reply to my impatient reprimand, softly but effectively murmured, "Ants, Senor!" The short Spanish A and the apologetic caress with which the words left his lips, combined with the heroic pantomime enacted, convulsed me and won my heart completely. Benito was bare-foot!

As my game bettered with practice and familiarity with the course, was it not Benito who addressed me at the tenth with emotion no longer to be repressed, "You are in the thirteenth for the first nine this day, Senor." This meant hard work for the next nine for it was plain to be seen that Benito was expected and no desire to become a shattered idol existed in my being, especially since the day he had sidled up to me with "I look for you each day, Senor, but when you do not come I must serve another. And from the others I do not get the drink and but twenty centavos." Many little ceremonies have entered into our intercourse. Although sanitary cups are in use at the fountain, caddies are not allowed to drink, and it is very hot. We are ever parched when we pass this point and it is so easy to draw an extra after the tee off and carry it down the fairway a bit for transfer at a vantage point. Si, Senor I realize it is very improper, not conducive to morale and elevates the little brown brother to a social standing not to be his—but, Amigo, you do not know Benito's smile nor have you heard him say, "Thank you, senor," backed by that collie dog, brown eyed smile.

But greater than all other ties comes that created by the honor of being allowed to make an approach shot or putt with the Master's clubs during a match to show the confidence in the diminutive Muchacha's golf, than which there is no more perfect. Ah, Amigo, if you could but see those brown toes curl into the ground for a grip, the address, preliminary wobble and the grace of the follow through, you might forgive us both much.

And so it came as a distinct shock when Benito told me he would be away Boy Scouting in a mountain camp, a vacation he had longed for.

BANKRUPTCY NOTICE

In the matter of Chandler D. White, Bankrupt, IN BANKRUPTCY, To the Honorable Presiding Judge of the District Court of the United States, for the Northern District of Illinois, Western Division.

Chandler D. White, of the County of Lee and State of Illinois, in said District, respectfully represents that on the 9th day of September A. D. 1921, he was duly adjudged bankrupt under the acts of Congress relating to bankruptcy; that he has duly surrendered all his property and rights of property, and has fully complied with all the requirements of said acts and of the orders of the court touching his bankruptcy.

Wherefore he prays that he may be decreed by the Court to have a full discharge from all debts provable against his estate under said bankruptcy acts, except such debts as are excepted by law from such discharge.

Dated this 5th day of September, A. D. 1922.

CHANDLER D. WHITE, Bankrupt, District of Northern Illinois, Western Division.

On this 20th day of October A. D. 1922, on reading the foregoing petition, it is Ordered by the court, that a hearing be had upon the same on the 15th day of January, A. D. 1923, before said court, at Freeport in said district, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon; and that notice thereof be published in The Dixon Telegraph, a newspaper printed in said district, and that all known creditors and other persons in interest may appear at said time and place and show cause, if any they have, why the prayer of said petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered by the court, that the clerk shall send by mail to all known creditors copies of said petition and this order, addressed to them at their places of residence as stated.

Witness the Honorable George A. Carpenter, Judge of the said court, and the seal thereof, at Freeport in said district, on the 20th day of October A. D. 1922.

Lad Stolen, Tortured by Gypsies

* Livid scars covering the body of Russell Smith (above), Dighton (Mass.) lad of nine, tell the story of four years' torture at the hands of gypsy captors. Mrs. Clarence Smith (inset), his mother, has just recovered him after the gypsy band abandoned him in Maine.

many a long day. All that was needed was "my mother's permission, said" and that was very sure to be given, provided my patronage could be secured on his return, as the money was badly needed at home. So we agreed and the start was to be made at five on a morning drawing near and a substitute of no poetic soul was turned over to me.

However, to my surprise the next match found Benito siding as usual out of the palm patch where the caddies rest, to take my bag. "Well, Benito, could you not secure your mother's permission?" I asked, but a glance showed that the subject was a bitter one and I dropped it when I saw a tear start down the little brown brother's cheek. Benito was strangely silent and even a victory and unusually good score failed to enthrall him to an encouraging smile.

My match was with a stranger and he caught us red-handed at the drinking stunt. We went for extra holes and when we paid off the tips differed. Combining the drinking episode, the defeat and what he considered a tip too ample, evidently irritated my friend, who gave me two culprits a very, very hard boiled once over. "So, you go in for this little Brown Brother stuff, eh? You'll get over that one day. These little niggers are a bunch of thieves, pure and simple and the more you do for them the less they appreciate you. Cut it out and you'll do better."

"Reckon you may be right, old man. You know the country better than I and probably I should not spoil a boy to the next run, but somehow when I think of the scant comforts of the nipa hut, the scant food and few enjoyments, then consider the agony that these boys, who can play better golf than we, endure watching us buacher the grand old game while they lug a heavy bag of misused implements about to the accompaniment of continual abuse, and that for thirty cents in two and a half hours of tropical sun, a bit of a tip seems money well spent."

Now, Amigo, I'm not for the little brown brother when it comes to turning him loose with self government to ruin himself and others. I'm not for the sort of loose manipulation that has gone on in the Philippines until good Gen. Leonard Wood came along to command respect and show them what efficiency meant, as far as possible, considering the fact that the previous regime's had so far served his powers up with local legislation that the task is almost impossible. No, I'm not for that. And I'm not for social equality by degree or the mixing of the races and all that. But Amigo, I am strong for the little brown brother Benito because he is strong for me; because he smiles a slow, caressing smile at me and his eyes have the look of my old dog of yesterday, than which no man had better or more staunch friend.

Every one longs to be a hero to some one. Just because it has been my lot to drift under the affections of Benito, I want to be a hero and stay there. It is a surety I would not take my game so seriously, nor try so hard in this hot climate were it not for the look of agony that greets a lost putt or the commendation that follows a good drive. Besides which, did I not know enough Spanish to follow my Ally as he berated a presumptuous fellow-caddy for declaring his Master my superior at the game?

Yes, Amigo, I must confess it is a case of the lust for hero worship for which I am willing to pay the price. Such a small price to me, meaning so much to him; spoiling him, I grant you, for the next in line but bringing a bit of cheer to a little brown body that contains what I know to be the soul of a poet, a poet who will lie a stroke a hole for the King who can do no wrong; a D'Annunzio who would go to battle with a fellow worker who remarked slightly of the ability of a Duffer at the game.

But I was telling a story. The opponent had spoken his mind and the rebuttal was in. Golf, fueds and hard work over for the day. But there was a cloud in the atmosphere. Benito's smile had been forced and he had not chanted his usual Spanish song nor encouraged me nor given me one "That was a vairy good shot, said" all day.

Could it be the King was toying from his throne, as all Kings have the habit of doing now-a-days? Or was it the bitter loss of the Boy Scout trip to the mountains? Turning it quickly over in my mind, I decided it would be best not to blunder, so, turning to the club, I gave Benito Adios and left him.

But I had not gone far out of ear shot of the others when a soft "Senor" arrested me and the little brown brother stood beside me with hat in hand. "I will be your caddy, Senor, not No. 7. I—I could not go. My father has been—murdered, said."

When the time came to think it over it appeared to me that we had selected a rather poor day to label Benito "Nigger and Thief." They must sting even a little brown brother when uttered before the Master and, I am afraid, such words won't stimulate the soft smile to reappear as soon as I would like to see it.

"Borrowed Baby" is Center of Fight in Peoria Court Today

Peoria, Ill., Oct. 23.—The court fight for a "borrowed baby" scheduled to open here today before Judge T. N. Green, has been postponed until tomorrow. Mr. and Mrs. Mary Miller, parents of the 20 months old child, alleged it is being illegally held by its grand mother, Mrs. Emma Mendenhall of Decatur, Ill.

When he and his wife asked the return of the child, they alleged the grandmother refused to part with it, claiming to have legally adopted it, the bill for habeas corpus alleges.

Mrs. Mendenhall is divorced from Mrs. Miller's father and was recently married to Squire Mendenhall of Decatur. Service on Mrs. Mendenhall was obtained by the Sheriff Saturday night.

Second Visit to Home Since 1865

The Allentown, Pa., Chronicle and News of Oct. 18, had the following concerning a Dixon man:

Allen Weigel, Mayor Malcolm W. Gross' uncle, is visiting here in Allentown for the second time since 1865. During that year Mr. Weigel left this city and going west settled in Dixon, Ill. Mr. Weigel was born in Allentown and is a brother to the Mayor's mother. He is desirous of learning if any of his old friends still reside in the old town. Should one of these old time companions happen to read this article, he or she is requested to get in touch with Mayor Gross so that a reunion may be arranged.

Prize "Bull" Tale of Day from Peoria

Peoria, Ill., Oct. 23.—Two bulls dashing through an open gate at the Peoria Stock Yards Monday morning bowled men over, tore down fences, knocked down a telephone pole and injured one man. One of the animals was captured but the other, after tossing Wesley Foster of Rock Island 20 feet in the air and breaking his leg, swam the Illinois river and disappeared in to the underbrush.

It is said a bull hunt is being organized in East Peoria to prevent the animal from joining the two lions in Michigan which are rumored to have escaped from a circus near Peoria.

Why the Nation Demands Calumet

BEST
BY TEST

—because it has more than the ordinary leavening strength; it raises millions of bakings every day to a light perfectly baked perfection that cannot be equaled.

—because it contains white-egg—the vital element that gives the housewives protection against using a baking powder that has lost its original leavening strength. It assures light, tender, tasteful things every time you bake.

—because it is economical—pure, sure and wholesome.

That's why the sale of Calumet is over 150% greater than that of any other baking powder.

A pound can of Calumet contains full 16 ounces. Some baking powders come in 12 ounce instead of 16 ounce cans. Be sure you get a pound when you want it.

HONEYMOONERS ABROAD—NO. 8.

SUSPICION!

Silent War Begins Between Jack Duryea and Cousins

BY ZOE BECKLEY

BEGIN HERE TODAY

GO ON WITH THE STORY

The moment the green car with Cousins and Edna swung down the mountain road Jack left the hotel and in a taxi made his way to the Naples office of his company. Doors were closed. Blinds down. Several "pick-ups" were about, walking up and down before the building.

Jack thought a moment, flashed up the only Italian word he knew—"dove," where—"Dove American Consul?" he shouted to the first cabman in sight.

The man nodded, touched his drowsy horse and off they went drawing up presently before a plain-looking doorway in a brick wall.

But, as so often in Europe, behind the wall was a lovely garden set with lemon and orange trees, an old stone fountain and shrubs through which a pair of kittens played.

"Whew," gasped Jack with relief at being able to address the attendant in plain English. "It's like having your breath held, this not knowing the lingo. Friend, I want to hire an interpreter with brains."

Half an hour and he was back at the A. E. S. C. with a consular clerk, a crisp young Easterner, Sam Clark. The latter did some brisk questioning a bit of investigation and then reported.

"The strike began," he told Jack, "when the big boss came. He pepped them up, made 'em work too hard or something. Whole staff's out."

Jack nodded. Just as he suspected. There was no coincidence in the arrival of Cousins, of himself, and of the strike. The European manager strongly suspected Jack's mission—and was acting accordingly, that was all.

"This strike," remarked Sam Clark, "is sure a windfall for the Eureka Electrical Supplies Company—your rivals."

"Why, how do you know?" flashed Jack.

"Oh, the big opera house had an emergency job, I happen to know they have always been your customers. We at the consulate know these things. The strike forced them to deal with the Eureka outfit."

"I see," said Jack, and went back to the hotel in a deeply thoughtful mood. He did not expect Edna and Cousins back for some hours. He was startled on entering his room to find his wife nervously pacing the floor.

"Why Edna, dear, how is it you're back so soon?"

Worried concern was in her eyes. "Oh, Jack, I've had such a—such a wretched afternoon. He is so strange. He suspects something. As soon as we left the hotel he began asking questions."

"Were you subject to sudden headaches? Were you on leave of absence? Had you been abroad before? What was your exact position with the A. E. S. C.—Oh, a lot of things."

DARK FROCKS.

Dark frocks of Poiré twill or serge are brightened up with bits of bright colored silks or Persian or Indian embroideries. Colored braids are also used to advantage.

JACK FISHED UP THE ONLY ITALIAN WORD HE KNEW.

"I answered the best I could to ward off suspicion, but he grew absent-minded. Then he spoke to the chauffeur in Italian and almost right afterward the car 'broke down.' He finally brought me back in a cab. What does it all mean, Jack?"

"That he and I," said Jack soberly, "are getting each other's number."

ONE MEMBER OF SCHOOL BOARD TO TAKE MEDICINE

Hart Hanson Says He Acted in Faith in Firing Chadsey.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Chicago, Oct. 24.—Declaring he acted in good faith in ousting Charles E. Chadsey as Superintendent of Schools and placing the blame for his plight on William A. Bither, former Attorney for the Chicago Board of Education, Hart Hanson, school trustee, was ready today to serve three days in jail and pay a fine of $200 for contempt of court.

Arrest of Bither and the six trustees and former members of the school board was expected today, following yesterday's mandate by the state Supreme Court ordering them to jail. Despite what action the others might take in seeking a rehearing, Mr. Hanson said he would take no further steps to evade the jail sentence.

"The act for which I am to be punished was performed by me in good faith," he said. "The ousting of Mr. Chadsey was a good thing for the schools, even if it was not legal."

Overrode Small's Pardon
The Supreme Court in ordering the seven to jail and in affirming fines imposed on women members of the board, overrode a blanket pardon by Governor Small. The court ruled the Governor overstepped his authority in granting pardons in contempt cases.

Meanwhile the grand jury continued its investigation of alleged graft in school affairs. Fred Lundin, picturesque figure in Illinois politics and characterized by his foes as the power behind the throne of Mayor Thompson and Governor Small, sent word to State's Attorney Crowe that he was not a "hideout" from process servers seeking to serve him with summons to appear before the grand jury. Mr. Lundin wrote from Milwaukee, where he said he was receiving medical treatment. He told the State's Attorney he would notify him when he returned to the Lundin estate in Lake County.

When Peaches Are Plentiful

Peach Shortcake.

NEARLY every good cook has her own favorite recipe for strawberry short cake, but as soon as the strawberry season passes she never thinks of making this delectable dessert until the season comes around again. And there are dozens of other shortcakes, almost if not quite as good as that made with the "queen of berries." To make a peach shortcake, cream a cupful of sugar and a tablespoonful of butter together and add three eggs beaten well. Sift together two or three times two cupfuls of flour and a teaspoonful of baking powder and add this to the first mixture. Bake in three layers for 20 minutes. Spread two of the layers with peaches cut into small pieces and sweetened to taste. On the top use a meringue made of the whites of one egg and a tablespoonful of powdered sugar.

Baked Peaches.

Six ripe peaches and one cupful sugar. Select ripe peaches of uniform size; wash, but do not pare. Place in a deep earthenware pie plate or casserole, and fill the dish nearly to rim with cold water. Cover peaches with light brown sugar, and bake in a moderate oven one hour.

They should be baked often, adding more water if necessary. Serve hot or cold with cream and cake.

Fruit Pudding.

Put one pint apples or peaches, sliced (or any kind of fruit), into a buttered baking dish. Mix one heaping cup flour, two level teaspoons baking powder, three thirds cup sugar, one egg, one cup milk and three table-spoons melted butter. Beat hard; pour over the fruit and bake. Serve with sauce. It is delicious.

Delicious Peach Shortcake.

Peel and remove stones from eight good-sized peaches. Halve and lay in buttered dish. Sprinkle with a teaspoon of flour and a pinch of nutmeg and cover with one cup sugar.

Make a shortcake with two cups sugar, half a teaspoon salt, half a cup flour, three teaspoons baking powder, all sifted together. Work into dry mixture one tablespoon butter and enough milk for a soft batter. Spread over peaches and bake in a moderate oven. Serve warm with whipped cream, flavored with a few drops of vanilla.

The Sub-Deb Comes Into Her Own

ISN'T it delightful to be the mother of an 8 to 14-year-old daughter nowadays when the loveliest frocks in all the world seem designed for that especial age? The time was when the poor little sub-deb had to be satisfied with little-girl clothes, which were too small for her; or big-girl clothes, which were too large for her. There wasn't a ghost of a thing in between.

But now! Why, there isn't a more fascinating spot in the shops than the junior department. It's enough to make the mothers who aren't so fortunate, and the bachelor maids, go out and rent a young lady daughter.

In grandmamma's time, silks, except a prim taffeta, weren't considered suitable for the younger generation. Yet what could be more youthful and demurely lovely than the flesh-colored or dawn-pink crepe de chine? It is serviceable as well as universally becoming, and the young person who chooses to appear in such a frock is as adorable as a half-opened rose, smiling at you from some choice bush.

It's really amazing what is being done with bright wools to develop character in youthful frocks, and incidentally in the more mature ones. When nothing more than a long and short, or a blanket stitch is used to edge the neck and sleeves, a great deal of smartness is accomplished. And when one goes farther and employs the heavily padded and raised flowers, the effect is stunning.

Not really makes a most inexpensive frock, and did you know that it may be purchased already ruffled, so that the merest seaming makes it into a delightful dress? A very practical investment for a young girl is a princess slip of either wash satin or crepe de chine. This imparts a lovely sheen to her georgettes and chiffons, and is a most alluring backing for organdie or net. They may be perfectly plain or daintily trimmed, and it is no task at all to make them at home.

The small daughter of a French countess attended a party recently in a pink organdie, bewitchingly embroidered in blue and yellow flowers. The skirt had the typical French brevity, and the embroidered organdie was entrancing. It had wide satin ribbon at the sides and a round cluster of the pastel colorings of the frock. Organdie seems such a befitting material for childhood, doesn't it? So crisp, so cool, and so daintily colorful. For the girl with gypsy-like coloring it is difficult to equal the charm of apricot organdie, and the lemon yellows are ex-the youthful generation. She flies from one thing to another quite as nonchalantly as the grown-ups. And her bathing outfits follow the mode quite as cleverly.

These up-to-the-moment young ladies favor the motif suits and caps. One of the smartest suits I have seen was in dark blue jersey with a bright butterfly at the side, and a cap which appeared to be nothing else but a huge butterfly in itself. You see the sub-deb is a very alert young person, and there is no matter in the style book which escapes her attention.

cellent for some types.

From such frivolous nothingness to a dashing little bathing suit is a lengthy step. But not too much so for

Heroes--and Men

IN a big downtown office during the luncheon hour a group of young women workers had gathered about the desk of one of their number and were listening breathlessly while she told them the thrilling story which she had just read in one of the new magazines.

It was a tale chuck full of romantic love. And unbelievable handsome man had ridden breakneck through a dense forest and rescued the charming girl from the terrible position into which she had ridiculously let herself be placed.

But not one of the girls questioned the commonsense of the plot or remembered that the brave hero had shortly before been a grocery clerk whom they looked down upon in everyday life. They listened starry-eyed and dreamed of the time when they might play a part in such a heavenly drama.

The Love of Romance.

It's the love of romance which tugs at the hearts of all of us; young and old. But the pity of it is that we never see it in the lives around us. It is only in fiction that the men are always dashing cavaliers, the girls lovely beyond comprehension, every one of them, and nobody is ever deceitful or cowardly or mean except, of course, the ones who have to be villains, and you can tell them at a glance.

They Are Reliable.

The young draughtsman at the desk next yours, for instance. He isn't going to exchange his somewhat worn blue serge suit for a pair of spurs and a sombrero and go dashing madly up and down the city streets at your command. But his heart is just as steady and loyal and loving. And he would be just as ready to serve you if real danger threatened. And the head of the shipping department, who often asks you out to the movies. He wouldn't kill three men single-handed, if they didn't get up and give you a seat in the trolleys. But after all killing is a gory and unsatisfactory way of settling difficulties in real life. A good, steady income and a reliable character is far to be preferred.

The men whom we meet in the everyday, work-a-day world often seem rather prosaic and commonplace beside our cherished creatures of our favorite stories. But just meet some of those heroes face to face and live with them day after day, and they'll be exactly like any other human being. For human nature, dear girls, is the same the world over.

If you ever happen to find yourself in want of a needle, just open your pin cushion and empty the contents. You'll be surprised at the number you will thus find. The pin cushion filling can be replaced in no time

White Satin Slippers.

TO clean white satin slippers take a little alcohol and two or three drops of lemon juice and rub on a soft white cloth. Then rub with a dry white cloth. This makes them look like new.

To Do Cross Stitch.

To do cross stitch evenly on velvet, muslin or any material where the threads can not be counted, baste a piece of loosely woven scrim or a piece of canvas on the part to be embroidered. Then copy, keeping stitches running in same direction. Then reverse piece and make the crossing stitch. After the design has been copied, pull out the canvas or scrim threads. You will find your design beautifully even, without any marks of stamping. Any diet crochet or cross-stitch design can be copied in one-third the time it takes in the old way.

To Darn Georgette Crepe.

When desiring to darn or patch Georgette crepe, Canton crepe or any other thin filmy material, neater results will be obtained if material to be mended is placed on embroidery hoops, as the hoops hold the material firm, therefore all stitches can be straight and uniform, also the material that is used for the patch or to darn to can be held and kept smoother.

Rag Carpets

To prevent rag carpet from fraying out when binding overcast both ends about one inch deep before cutting. This can be done very easily, prevents fraying and makes binding easier and neater.

DR. OLIVER EVERETT

Some Incidents Connected with the Life of Well Known Physician, the Early History of Lee County and Especially Dixon.

BY DOROTHY N. LAW

When the boat stopped at Paducah for coal, Dr. Everett took the opportunity to make a short visit on Col. H. T. Noble's Dixon, who was there in charge of supplies for the army. A letter written by Dr. Everett May 23, 1862 says:

"We passed Fort Henry. It was a breastwork of earth, surrounded by bags of sand. It was torn to pieces by Com. Foote. We saw the island where Com. Foote stationed his gunboats of soldiers when he shelled them out. Long gunboats of soldiers are constantly going up the river to surprise the Rebel army."

"Strange feeling comes over me as I approach the place where nearly 300,000 of my countrymen are pitted against each other ready for deadly conflict. And part of those possessed of a madness which is unexplainable and yet exhibits a bravery worthy of a better cause, while our brave soldiers all over the land are, with self devotion, working out one of the most thrilling portions of human history."

"Not long after reaching the hospitals where hundreds of the sick and wounded were being cared for, Dr. Everett was taken ill and obliged to return home. No doubt one reason, added to his patriotism, which made him so prompt to answer the call for medical assistance was that many Dixon and Sterling boys were at the front. We quote from an article written by Dr. C. C. Hunt:

"In the spring of 1862, Dr. Everett, with other physicians, was sent south after the battle of Shiloh in anticiat Springfield. That force was the venerable, much loved Father Dixon, his flowing white locks and winning face accomplished their undoing as nothing else could have done. He met each member, many of whom he knew personally or by reputation. He was invited to sit by the speaker during the deliberations of the body and was the guest of honor at banquets.

The Lion of the Hour

Members who had promised for the removal bill began to weaken as the time for action approached, saying they had not the heart to take the county seat away from the town the genial old man had founded and which bore his honored name. And with this heaven working against the removal, together with the shrewdness of J. L. Camp, E. F. Shaw, J. C. Ayres and others, the bill was defeated.

CLAIM IS DENIED

San Antonio, Tex., Oct. 23—The claim of Burbank, California, in having the first baseball school in history is a mistake. Several years ago, Charley Carr, old Federal League first baseman, and other baseball men, opened a baseball school at Hot Wells, near San Antonio. The school continued for about a year before it went under.

Minimum Wage Aids Industry Woman Says

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 24—A minimum wage helps business Mrs. Florence Kelley, general secretary of the National Consumers' League, told the Chamber of Commerce here today.

"We speak in the light of ten years' experience in several states," said Mrs. Kelley, "beginning in 1912 with the Massachusetts commission of inquiry, when we assert that a minimum wage tends to stimulate incompetent employers to improve their industrial methods and to seek and keep a high quality of employees, and to stimulate employees to exertion to make themselves worth keeping. Many underpaid workers improve visibly when a living wage is put in force."

"E. A. Filene, head of a specialty firm in Boston, testified before a congressional committee that his firm was amazed by the sudden improvement in the zeal and speed and attention of employees after the firm had established a minimum wage, antipating the Massachusetts law. Only employers who are incompetent, under capitalized, are interfered with by minimum wage rulings."

THIS IS NOT A PICTURE

"The White Peacock," Madame Petrova's initial triumph as a playwright comes to the Dixon Theatre after an entire season in New York and in leading cities throughout the country, with Madame Petrova, herself, playing the leading role.

Breathing the spirit of modern life, the play strikes a note of primal import which when brought to the surface through the brilliant dialogue is both startling and illuminating. Dominating the whole, the magnetic spirit of Petrova in the role of Revette, vivifies every scene. Nightingales and guitars, the heavy aroma of orange blossoms, silver moonlight and purple bougainvilleas are only a few of the colorful gems in the setting surrounding the Spanish romance.
